From: Commonwealth Care Alliance, Inc. (CCA)
Subject: New Clinical Practice Guidelines (CPGs) Now Available

Summary

Commonwealth Care Alliance® (CCA) is committed to supporting providers in delivering high-quality, evidence-based care. As part of this effort, CCA endorses Clinical Practice Guidelines (CPGs) to support informed clinical decision-making. Most endorsed CPGs have been published within the last two years, reflecting current clinical practice, and many providers may already be following these recommendations.

How to use these guidelines

These CPGs are intended as a resource to support best practices. They may not apply to every provider, patient population, or care setting, and are not intended to be comprehensive across all conditions.

CPGs are designed to support, but not replace, clinical judgment. Providers should continue to determine the most appropriate care based on each member's individual needs, preferences, and clinical circumstances. CCA also encourages shared decision-making between providers and patients to support optimal outcomes.

CCA's adopted CPGs and recommended assessment tools are available at CCA's Clinical Practice Guidelines Webpage. Providers are encouraged to review the guidelines and use them as a reference to support evidence-based care in their practice.
